

TRUST CONNECTION

A Monthly Report on Trust News and Information

Inlet Private Wealth & Trust takes the time to learn your financial aspirations, evaluate your personal circumstances and then provide honest, independent advice. Working together we can build a strong foundation by providing solid trustee and investment management solutions that helps protect your wealth and provide peace of mind for the future of your estate.

Inlet Private Wealth was founded and structured to best serve its clients. We believe that effective wealth management is a deeply personal process, one that must be objective, engaged and based on each client's unique goals. Clients deserve tailored solutions, and we work collaboratively with our clients to achieve their unique financial objectives.

(561) 781-0400
Inletprivatewealth.com

Reynolds Plaza, Suite 206
1061 E. Indiantown Road
Jupiter, FL 33477

How You Can Benefit from Deferred Compensation Plans

Why deferred compensation plans?

Sheltering your income can prove a beneficial task. Many employers offer creative, cutting-edge benefit programs to attract potential employees. It's important to know what the different plans are and how a trusted advisor's guidance can help you determine what works best for your financial situation.

While deferred compensation plans might be foreign to you, the elements may be familiar, such as pensions, employee stock options and retirement plans. The ability for employees to delay substantial amounts of income within their plans' limits, including potential contributions from their employer, is an attractive ingredient when changing employers or choosing to continue in a company.

In an environment where employers are competing for top talent, deferred compensation plans have the potential to be a powerful recruiting tool.

What are they?

The two types of deferred compensation plans include qualified and non-qualified plans.

Qualified plans include the common 401(k) plans. These plans are held within trust accounts, making them more secure. Employers are required to make these plans available to any employee and the offerings available through them benefit all equally.

Unlike qualified plans, non-qualified plans have no contribution limits. These plans prove attractive to specific employees, such as upper management and executives. However, since your money will be part of the business' funds, deferring large amounts of money to these plans can put your money at risk, especially if the company files for bankruptcy.

Our trusted advisor's guidance in trust services can help you navigate what plans work best for you.

What does this mean for my future?

Employees mostly view deferred compensation plans as an important element of their overall retirement plan. Deferred compensation plans, qualified or not, have benefits, including tax savings, capital gains, and pre-retirement distributions.

The key to your planning lies in your ability to choose what plan will preserve the tax deferral effect while drawing on the non-qualified plan during early retirement. Deferred compensation plans provide a vehicle for saving for retirement when you can't save enough through your 401(k) or other qualified plans.

Most employers continue to make contributions to your plans, both as a means of motivation as well as providing contributions that are limited by federal law. As with qualified plans, your employer's investment decision support adds yet another layer of value and guidance for your services in the workplace. Continue to reach out to your employer and trusted advisor; revisit your specific plan to make sure it's still meeting your financial needs.

What next?

There are countless factors in determining what plan works best for your financial situation: your employer's benefit options, your salary, your age, your retirement plan, etc. The benefits employers offer are not to be ignored. Taking the steps for future financial security plays a significant role in what jobs you choose to devote your time and labor.

continued ...

Contact a Trusted Advisor for trusted service and guidance for planning your financial future and retirement.

A LOCAL TRUST SOLUTION

Call us today to learn more about working with Inlet Private Wealth & Trust.
For information and assistance contact us at:

Inlet Private Wealth & Trust

(561) 781-0400 | InletPrivateWealth.com

Reynolds Plaza, Suite 206, 1061 E. Indiantown Road, Jupiter, FL 33477

Inlet Private Wealth & Trust is a Trust Representative Office of National Advisors Trust Company. This publication contains general information only, and National Advisors Trust Company is not, by this publication, rendering accounting, financial, investment, legal, tax or other professional advice or services.